A.B. 10616. The author was a correspondent on board the Pandora. He describes the voyage under the command of... "Captain Allen Young's expedition in his yacht Pandora (later the Jeannette), 1875-76, into Lancaster Sound, Barrow Strait, and into Peel Sound. Also contains an account of Young's sledge trips during M'Clintock's Fox Expedition". (A.B.). The Voyage was privately organized. Its object was to sail to the magnetic pole by way of Lancaster Sound and from there negotiate the North West Passage. They reached Beechey Island where they found a number of relics left by earlier expeditions but were finally beset by ice in Franklin Strait. There were two other works written on this expedition both by the commander, one was privately published and contained photographs.

John MacGahan, was a noted American journalist and war correspondent, who was born in St. Louis, of Irish parents, (Louth), in 1846. A noted war correspondent, he died, in Constantinople, June 10, 1878, on the threshold of a brilliant career. He was the author of one other book Campaigning on the Oxus; and the Fall of Khiva.

Nansen, one of the most significant figures in the history of Arctic exploration, was originally a naturalist. He decided in 1888 to attempt the crossing of Greenland, and with five companions, including Otto Sverdrup, set off in June of that year. The crossing, by small boat, ski and sledge, achieved many important scientific objectives, including meteorological observations, as well as illustrating the ideal methods of Arctic travel. His most important achievements were on the Fram Expedition of 1893-96. He established the nature and drift of the Arctic Ice-pack, having deliberately allowed the ship, built to his own design, to be frozen into the ice. During the expedition, Nansen, with one companion and 3 dog sledges, achieved the highest latitude yet attained (86o14').

T.P.L. 126. Diereville, a surgeon, was sent with goods by a French trading firm to Port Royal where he remained from October 13, 1699 to October 6, 1700. This account of his trip, of Indian life and of the flora and fauna of the district was written in verse, with some prose passages substituted later. The third edition issued at Amsterdam, 1810, contains a seven page appendix on the attack of the Bastonnais on Port Royal, August, 1707. This edition, the first in English, is a translation of the text of the third issue of the first Rouen edition, 1708, printed from a photostat copy in the Library of Parliament, Ottawa.
Du CREUX, Francois

The History of Canada, or New France. [in ten books to the year of Our Lord, MDCLVI. (1656)].
By Father Francois Du Creux. Translated with an Introduction by Percy J. Robinson. Edited with Notes by James B. Conacher. In Two Volumes. The Champlain Society No. 30. & 31. Toronto. 1951 & 1952. 24cm, xxvii,[404] & 775pp. in two volumes, with 16 plates & maps (being reproductions from the original; including 3 folding), limited to 550, this being #85, original crested red cloth, t.e.g., a fine set

200.00

The chief sources of information for the early seventeenth century in Canada are Champlain, Sagard, and the Jesuit Relations. Du Creux's book, one of the rarest items of Canadiana, covers the period from 1625 to 1658, and was published in Paris in 1664 in a sumptuous edition by the Cramoisy Press, which had long been connected, through the printing of the Relations, with the Society of Jesus and their mission in New France.

"The letters printed here are, with few exceptions, addressed to James Hargrave. They were written at posts from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Pacific coast, and from the southern limits of the Hudson's Bay Territory to the Arctic circle. They form what is probably a unique chronicle of the north and west in the days before newspapers. An attempt has been made to choose letters that throw light on the conditions of the country, the conduct of the trade, and the life of the traders. Since the letters are private, they reveal much that was necessarily omitted from official correspondence". Introduction.
37. [HARGRAVE, Letitia].

39. HEARNE, Samuel

A Journey From Prince of Wales's Fort in Hudson's Bay to the Northern Ocean, in the Years 1769, 1770, 1771 and 1772. By Samuel Hearne. New Edition, with Introduction, Notes, and Illustrations by J.B. Tyrrell. Toronto. The Champlain Society. No. 6. 1911. 24cm, xv, 437p. with 9 maps & plates from the original edition and 26 additional maps & plates, (including 7 rear folding maps), limited to 550 copies, this being #85, original gilt crested red cloth, t.e.g., spines slightly faded (titles and stamping clear), some spotting to cloth, a very good copy 650.00

One of the classic journals of North American travel, particularly notable in terms of Arctic exploration. Hearne will always be remembered as the first white man to see the Arctic Ocean. "... His first attempts, made in 1769 and 1770, failed but he reached the river on his journey of 1771-72, becoming the first man to reach the Arctic Ocean overland. He also acquired the technique of survival by learning to live off the Barren Lands. In 1774 he founded Cumberland House on Pine Island, the first inland post to be established by the company. He became governor of Fort Prince of Wales in 1775... He retired in 1787 and spent the rest of his life working on the manuscript of the present title. This classic of the literature of exploration is the story of Hearne's three journeys to which he added accounts of the appearance and habits of animals including the musk ox, previously known only by report. Another valuable addition was the chapter dealing with the Chippewayan Indians.
40. ISHAM, James

James Isham’s Observations on Hudsons Bay, 1743 and Notes and Observations on a book entitled A Voyage To Hudsons Bay In The Dobbs Galley, 1749. [By Henry Ellis]. Edited with Introduction by E.E. Rich. Toronto. Boundary Survey field teams struggled to fix the international border between Canada and the United States along the 49th Parallel, running west from Lake of the Woods to the Pacific Ocean. The volume employs letters written to their respective families by participants on either side of the binational undertaking. Both were "Assistants" in their country's field staffs. Joseph Harris was an American in the field from 1857 to 1861, while Samuel Anderson was a Canadian who participated in the first phase of the survey between 1859 and 1862.

The best contemporary authority on the death of Wolfe and the conquest of Canada. Knox, an Irishman, served in America from 1757 to 1760 with the 43rd Regiment of Foot. His journal written mostly at the time, and finished almost as soon as the events it contains, is one of the most accurate and detailed accounts available on the sieges of Louisbourg and Quebec. This journal is a blunt, full, interesting, and a matter of fact record of events from day to day. It is candid and reliable and has furnished materials for all subsequent writers. The military and naval orders are singularly valuable for the light they throw upon the operations of war as it was conducted at the time by both armies
LAJEUNESSE, Ernest J. (Edited with Introduction by)

46. [McLOUGHLIN, John].

The Letters of John McLoughlin, from Fort Vancouver to the Governor and Committee, 1825-1846. Edited by E.E. Rich, with an Introduction by W. Kaye Lamb. The Champlain Society. Hudson's Bay Series. Nos. 4, 6, & 7. In Three Volumes. Toronto. 1941-1944. 24cm, cxxviii,374 & xlix,427 & lxiii,341pp. frontispis portrait, 3 folding maps, and 2 tipped in plates, limited to 550 numbered copies, this being #342, original crested red cloth, t.e.g., a fine set 200.00

Strathern 349. Smith 6433. T.P.L. 5325. "Edited from the original mss. in the H.B.C. Archives. W.K. Lamb's introduction constitutes a history of the fur trade as it involved McLoughlin, and a biography of him". (Strathern). Dr. John McLoughlin was a wintering partner of the North West Company until 1821, when it united with the Hudson's Bay Company. He accepted a commission with this Comp-any and in 1823 was sent as Chief Factor to the Columbia district. He was placed in charge at Fort George in 1824 but in 1826, moved his headquarters to Fort Vancouver, which he had built. These letters tell the story of the Hudson's Bay activities on the Pacific coast in the first half of the 19th century. They reveal all the Author's difficulties with the management of the fur trade, hostile Indians, obstructive Russians and pioneering Americans besides the problems of agricultural settlement and of missionary enterprise". John Prince was a lawyer, farmer, military officer, politician, judge, and entrepreneur. He emigrated to Upper Canada in 1833. An unhappy and volatile man, he was at odds with himself, his family, and his associates. As Colonel of the Third Essex Regiment, he was sometimes unpredictable in his actions and on one occasion, during the Upper Canada Rebellion, unjustifiably violent - ordering the summary execution of five prisoners after the Battle of Windsor.

"The document here published is not, properly speaking, a document of the Hudson's Bay Company at all, although it is preserved in the Company archives. It is a selection of Colin Robertson's letters, copied perhaps with a view to publication, and most of them originally addressed to private persons rather than to officials of the company. Yet it has an important place in any attempt to publish the documents which will furnish to the historian the raw materials from which to reconstruct the story of the union of the Hudson's Bay Company and the North West Company". Immediately after his appointment as Governor-in-Chief of the Hudson’s Bay Company, George Simpson travelled from Montreal following the old fur trade route to Fort William, and then to the Athabaska region, to control hostilities between the Hudson’s Bay Company and the North West Company. From Rock Depot, Manitoba, he moved to Athabaska and organized an amalgamation in 1821. The journal in which his historic trip was reported to the Company appears in the handwriting of Simpson’s clerk, Robert Seaborn Miles.

SMITH, (Chief Justice) William

The Diary and Selected Papers of Chief Justice William Smith, 1784-1793. Champlain Society, No. 41 & 42. In Two Volumes. Edited by L.F.S. Upton. Toronto. William Smith (1728-1793), chief justice of Quebec and of Lower Canada (1786-93), was born in York and educated at Yale College (B.A., 1745). In 1769 he was appointed a member of the Executive of New York, and in 1780 chief justice of the province. During the American Revolution, he was a staunch loyalist, and in 1784 he left New York for England with Carleton. When Carleton returned to Canada in 1786 as governor-in-chief of British North America, Smith came with him as Chief Justice of Quebec. As such, he had much to do with the framing of the Constitutional Act of 1791. Under the Act he became Chief Justice of Lower Canada, and speaker of the Legislative Council; but he died shortly afterwards at Quebec, on December 6th, 1793. [Wallace p.703].

David Thompson (1770-1857), was first a surveyor for the Hudson's Bay Company, then in the employ of the North-West Fur Company, spending twenty-seven years exploring and mapping the North-West territory between Lake Superior and the Pacific coast. "Although regarded as one of the greatest geographers of all time, Thompson spent the last years of his life in dire poverty at Longueuil, Lower Canada, working on a Narrative of his experiences from 1784 to 1812. It was edited for the Champlain Society by J.B. Tyrrell in 1916. A new edition by R. Glover (1962) contains some pages that were missing when the Tyrrell edition was made". Story p795.

T.P.L. 3382 & Lande 2006. This work serves as a complement to the author’s `Roughing It In The Bush’, 1852. It describes life in urban Ontario in the 1850’s and shows a marked change in attitude to emigration. It describes the benefits of life in urban Ontario in the 1850’s. Enthusiastic in tone, it is a marked change in attitude regarding emigration to Canada when compared to her earlier work. Mrs. Moodie was a sister of Catharine Parr Traill and Samuel Strickland, and was one of the most distinguished pioneers of Canadian literature. She came to Upper Canada in 1832 with her husband, a lieutenant in the 21st Fusiliers. They originally settled near Cobourg and later moved to the backwoods area in Douro Township, and then to Belleville in 1840. This sequel to Roughing It In The Bush relates Moodie’s experiences after the move to Belleville.

98. TRAILL, Catharine Parr

The Canadian Crusoes. A Tale of the Rice Lake Plains. Edited by her sister, Agnes Strickland. Illustrated by Harvey. Boston. Crosby & Nichols. 1862. 12mo, 17.2cm, early edition, 376p., complete with engraved vignette half title page, title page vignette, and 4 engraved plates (including engraved frontis view), in the original wavy grain light brown cloth, extra blind stamped decorations on the boards, gilt titles and pictorial decorations on the spine, one section slightly jumped (but sound), some occasional slight foxing but for this book, a near fine copy 200.00

T.P.L. 3317. Osborne 311. for the first edition. One of Mrs. Traill's most enduring juvenile novels, The Canadian Crusoes was in print under various titles like "Lost in the Backwoods"... almost continuously from the first English edition of 1852 through to the early 20th century.

Written in flowery style of the 19th century, this is however no pale imitation of Defoe. Instead of a desert island, here is a vast wilderness inhabited by Indians, spreading inland from Cobourg, Ontario. Instead of a shipwrecked adult, we read of three young people. Here is the irresistible stuff of the isolation story, the display of equanimity, the search for Spiritual guidance. (Notable Canadian Children's Books, 1976).

101. TRAILL, C[atharine] P[arr]

Studies of Plant Life in Canada: or, Gleanings from Forest, Lake and Plain. Illustrated with Chromo-Lithographs from Drawings by Mrs. Chamberlin, Ottawa. Ottawa. A.S. Woodburn, Printer and Publisher.

1885. tall8vo. 25cm. the first edition, ix,287p., photographic frontis portrait and 9 full-colour chromolitho plates, index, in the original extra gilt decorated green pebbled cloth, expertly rebacked, bevelled boards, a.e.g., a very good to fine copy 450.00

All of the illustrations are chromolithographed and highlighted by hand with watercolour. "It was not, until years after Thomas Traill's death on 21 June 1859, when she was at last established in the Lakefield cottage, Westove, arranged for her by Sam Strickland, that she had the opportunity to collaborate with her widowed niece, Agnes Dunbar FitzGibbon, [Moodie*], daughter of Susanna Moodie and like her mother a skilled illustrator of flowers. Agnes not only taught herself lithography but secured publication by John Lovell in 1868 of Canadian wildflowers, to which she contributed the illustrations and Catharine the text. The book was sold by subscription and went through at least four editions. The collaboration resumed years later when, in 1884, Agnes, then Mrs Chamberlin, settled in Ottawa, undertook negotiations for publication there of Catharine's fullest nature work, Studies of plant life in Canada; or, Gleanings From Forest, Lake and Plain (1885). A far more interesting and approachable book than its scientific title would seem to suggest, it led a friendly authority in Ottawa, James Fletcher*, to praise her descriptive skills as "one of the greatest botanical triumphs which [anyone] could achieve." Carl Clinton Berger has called the book "a splendid anachronism," directing attention not only to the delays in publication but to the spirited approach that characterizes Traill's inventories and her floral biographies. Though she was not a critical scientist she brought a passion to her study that has won her considerable admiration. Under less adverse circumstances her work might have been published earlier, thereby earning her a more significant place in the evolution of botanical studies in Canada. "DCB.

103. UPPER CANADA]. 1802. LAND GRANT

P. Hunter, Lt. Gov. [Signed]: Province of Upper-Canada. George the Third....Know Ye, that we of our special grace, certain knowledge, and mere mention have Given and Granted, and by these presents do Give and Grant unto Joshua Booth of the Township of Earnest Town: In the County of Lenox and Addington, in the Midland District, Esquire....Three Hundred Acres with Allowances for Roads... Lot number Forty in the Front Concession... Commencing in the Front of the said Front Concession, at the South East Angle of the said Lot on the Bay of Quinty, Then North Twenty four Degrees Thirty Minutes West, One Hundred and sixty four chains more or less to the Allowance for Roads in front of the second Concession. Then South Sixty-five Degrees West, nearly Nineteen Chains. Then South Twenty-four Degrees, Thirty Minutes East to the Front. Then along the shore to the place of beginning. Easterly. [hand-written entries]...[extensive legalese].... we have caused an allotment or appropriation of Thirty and six sevenths to be made for a Protestant Clergy.... Given under the Great Seal of our Province of Upper Canada: Peter Hunter Esquire, Lieutenant Governor of our said Province and Lieutenant General Commanding our Forces in the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada. This Seventeenth Day of May in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and two....[Signed] P.H. Entered with the Auditor 31 July 1802. Peter Rufsell, Esq. [With large circular seal (circumference of 12cm) attached to lower edge with original ribbon]. 46x 62cm ( 18” x 25”), printed with hand-written entries, vellum, with large circular seal attached to deed with ribbon, docket on verso, mounted on stiff card backing and professionally framed with glass on both sides to display both the deed, docket and both sides of the seal, plain wooden frame (82x 94cm), a fine example of an early Ontario land grant displayed in museum quality, very rare

In my experience Lands Grants from this period with the seal intact are very scarce. In addition, these documents prior to 1810, are very rare. I only remember seeing any of these once previously; about thirty five years ago in the offices of Joseph Patrick Books, Toronto.
The area in the Bay of Quinte was settled in the early spring of 1794 by disbanded soldiers of the 2nd Battalion, Rogers' Corps. The grantee married the daughter of one of the officers, Ensign David Fraser. Joshua Booth (1759-1813), a miller, was one of first elected members of the Upper Canadian Parliament assembled in Newark in 1792 and served as a Captain in the Hastings Militia. "Died at Ernestown, on Saturday, Oct. 31, 1813, suddenly, Joshua Booth, Esq., aged 54 years. He was one of the oldest settlers in that place, and ever retained the character of a respectable citizen. Left a widow and ten children." [Canniff: Settlement of Upper Canada, 1869]. The deed has been endorsed and signed by the Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada, Peter Hunter, who held the position from 1799 to 1805. His military responsibilities as commander-in-chief of the forces in Canada necessitated his often absence from York and government was left in the hands of executive councillors (believed to be the origination of the "Family Compact").
